Semester:	First
Course Code	A060100M
Paper no.	First (Theory)
Course Title	Indian National Movement & Constitution of India
Credit	06
Maximum marks	25+75

Course Objective : The aim of this course is to enable students to gain knowledge about constitutional design as well as the empirical practice of state structures and institutions. The Indian Constitution accommodates divergent theoretical impulses (liberty and equality with a focus on justice, territorial decentralization and a unitary federation, development alongside democracy) within itself. The course traces the embodiment of some of these conflicts in constitutional provisions, and demonstrates how these have played out in political practice. It encourages a study of the mutual interaction of various institutions of the state as well as their interaction with the larger extra-constitutional environment. The course is expected to enable students to develop the ability to construct rigorous arguments on Indian politics, based on empirical knowledge and informed by a critical awareness of the scholarly literature on the subject. In addition, the course explains the complex ways in which the emergency provisions work and how security laws may be understood within the larger constitutional framework.

Learning Outcomes :

After successful completion of the syllabus, learners will be able to
